concordance was published in 1890 by James Strong (1822-1894), with the following title, The Exhaustive of the Bible, showing each word of the text of the common English version, along with a Comparative of the Authorized and Revenge Versions. Strong's concordance is also provided "with short dictionaries of the Hebrew and Greek words of the original". Strong was professor at Drew Theological Seminary, and the co-editor of the now reissued M'Clintock and Strong Cyclopaedia. In Giovane's concordance the occurrences of an Eng word, for example, in the NT, are classified according to the words of the Gr. text, while in Strong's concordance all occurrences of the word Eng are given in succession, each followed by a number. For example, the occurrences of the word "word" in Strong are followed by numbers 3056, 4487. You must then turn to the end of the concordance to discover the word Gr. to which these numbers refer. In the Young Concordance, however, the words Gr. are already classified, such as logos and rhyme, and a quotation line from each v. in which these words occur. It will be a surprise to many to know that the Greek of the absolutely indispensable English of the New compiled by George V. Wigram (1805-1879), appeared as early as 1839, and is still in print. In this volume of 1,000 pages the Gr. vocabulary of the NT is arranged alphabetically, with all the occurrences of each word. This is followed by a complete index of the words of the Eng. text, with the Gr. words from which they are tr. The word εΑΆwordεΑΆ is said to be a tr. of two Gr. words logos and rhάμα. The index states that a complete list of all the passages in which these two Gr. words occur may be found on pp. 462 and 677 respectively. The concordance is worked out with great detail. There is also an index of Gr. and Eng. words; e.g., under the Gr. word εΑΆlogoseΑΆ twenty-seven different Eng. words tr. from εΑΆlogoseΑΆ in the NT, such as εΑΆdoctrine, εΑΆpreaching, εΑΆArums, εΑΆas, εΑΆApreach, εΑΆApreach, εΑΆApreach, εΑΆApreach, εΑΆetc. This is an indispensable work. There are also numerous references of the Gr. and Heb. text. In 1870 Charles F. Hudson published his Greek and English Concordance of the New Testament, which reached an eighth ed., revised by Ezra Abbott (1882). This lists all the passages where each Gr. word occurs but it does not quote them. In the Preface to the seventh ed., signed εΑΆH.L.H., εΑΆ it is asserted that εΑΆthere is probably no one book in existence which points out so many of the facts and considerations which influenced the Revisers in their work. The changes made εΑΆare technical work which has won great approval was published in 1897 as the combined labor of two great Eng. scholars, William F. Motson (1835-1898) and A. S. Ceden (1857-1936), the Concordance to the Greek Testament according to the Texts of Westcott and Hort, Tischendorf and the English Revised Version (1881-1901). The quotations are from the Revised Version. A work widely used in English America, although published in Germany, is the Handwörterbuch der Griechischen N. T. of Dr. Alfred Schmoller. This was published for the first time in 1869. It was substantially revised in the eighth ed., which appeared in 1949. Based on the ninth ed. of the Nestle New Testament, it is substantially revised, with extensive addenda. Given in equivalent Latin, it consists of three parts: (1) Verbi, or the substantives, (2) Verbū, or the adjectives, (3) Reliqui loci. The latest edition of this work was done by the late James B. Smith, a Greek-English at the New Testament, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (1955). This lists 5,524 gr. words that give the various renderings of each in the KJV with the number of times that occur. In 1963 a work completed by J. Stegeman was published, the Sacred Greco-English analytical Bible of the New Greco-English Testament. He began to appear in Oxford in 1897 that the monumental work in two volumes of sheet, with a supplement, to La Sacra Bibbia at the Settuaignt and the other Greek versions of the Old Testament including Edwin Hatch's Apocryphal books (1835-1889) e Henry A. Redpath (1848-1908). This indispensable work for the study of gr. Or also the equivalent of each word gr. In every step in which it occurs. More than one hundred years ago, John Taylor published a work now rarely seen, a sacred Jewish Bible adapted to the English Bible, a little after the way of Buxtorf, one and overhauled. A precious job, in compact format, was the sacred English and Jewish Bible, of Aaron Pick, professor of Heb. in the University of Prague. It was organized in alphabetical order according to the word Eng., For which the words or words of the AB are given. For example, for the word eng. "Farewell" words of thirteen eb. They are listed, with the passages in which each occur. This was signed by a number of bishops, from T. H. Horne, J. J. Smith, E. H. Bickersteth, etc. In 1874 there appeared the Englishman's Hebrew and Chaldee Concordance of the Old Testament. In 1883, edited by John Alexander Rose, appeared A Complete Concordance to the Revised Version of the New Testament, εΑΆpublished under the authorization of Oxford and Cambridge Universities. εΑΆIt mainly follows the lines laid down by Cruden. In 1922, when he was eighty-two years of age, M. C. Hazard (1839-1929) published his Complete Concordance to the American Standard Version of the Holy Bible. This work is said to contain 16,000 headings. The classification of these words is wonderfully helpful in spite of the fact that there are many errors in the volume. Thus for εΑΆwordεΑΆ there are two columns of references under that single term, followed by all the vv. where occur the phrase εΑΆword again. εΑΆ then εΑΆword of Jehovah came, εΑΆ εΑΆword of God, εΑΆ εΑΆword of Jehovah, εΑΆ εΑΆword of truth, εΑΆ etc. εΑΆTwenty different headings. In addition there are some encyclopedic notes prefacing many of the words. For the word Aaron, Aaron's probable meaning is given, then six lines of a summary of his life. In 1894 appeared the work by J. B. R. Walker (1821-1885), A Comprehensive Concordance, later reprinted in 1945 with an introduction by M. C. Hazard. This is based on Cruden, but is said to contain 50,000 more references than Cruden. In 1957 appeared Nelson's Complete Concordance of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible, compiled by John W. Ellison. Finally, in 1964, appeared the Concordance to the New English Bible, New Testament, compiled by E. Elder. The editor defines this work as εΑΆa concordance of words not in, or not in the same verses as the KJV. A supplement to existing concordances to the Douay VS but the definitive work, which will not have to be done again, is the 81-1, 10691(ydudis elib) pdf slot esprubimut. w.
